Aging Life Care Professionals

- An Aging Life Care Professional, also known as a Private Geriatric Care Manager, is a health and human services specialist who acts as a guide and advocate for families who are caring for older relatives or disabled adults. The Aging Life Care Professional is educated and experienced in any of several fields including, but not limited to nursing, gerontology, social work, or psychology. He/she is able to address a broad range of issues related to the well-being of their client. They often have knowledge about the costs, quality, and availability of resources in their communities.
- They generally charge an hourly fee and are insured. Their national association's website is www.aginglifecare.org.

Senior Move Managers

- Senior Move Management is the profession that assists older adults and their families with the emotional and physical aspects of relocation and/or "aging in place." Although specific services vary, most Senior Move Managers® can help with some or all of the following:
 - Developing an overall move or "age in place" plan
 - Organizing, sorting and downsizing
 - Customized floor plans
 - Arranging for the profitable disposal of unwanted items through auction, estate sale, buy-out, consignment, donation, or a combination of the above
 - Interviewing, scheduling and overseeing movers
 - Unpacking and setting up the new home
- They generally charge an hourly fee and are insured. Their national association's website is www.nasmm.org.

Professional Organizers & Productivity Consultants

- People who work in this field are very diverse. However, they generally charge an hourly fee and are insured. The national association's website is www.napo.org. Among the types of activities that a professional organizer can do for someone is:
 - Hands-on organizing--One organizer or an entire organizing team can come to a home (or office), to organize the space and then advise a person on the best organizing tools and tactics for their specific challenges. The time investment can be anywhere from a few hours to many weeks, depending on the size of the space, the amount of clutter and the person's ability to make decisions.
 - Home maintenance--organizers can help create better organizing systems for relatively organized homes. Home maintenance could include an annual clean out of the kitchen pantry or help with redesigning the home's garage and storage areas. Organizers can communicate a person's needs with the rest of the household to streamline communication and reduce friction.
 - Moving, relocating and downsizing--Some professional organizers specialize in moves and relocations. They'll help to manage everything from interviewing moving companies to packing, unpacking and organizing all of the household belongings.

Estate Sale & Auction Companies

- These companies that will sell items from the home. Some companies will price and auction individual items and some companies can come to the home and have an estate sale at the home. Some companies specialize in particular items or geographic areas.
- Most companies will charge a set percentage at around 20% to 40% for each sale. The percentage does vary by location, and the type of items being sold. Common tasks of a company are:
 - Sift through all the items in the home, including closets, garages, attic, and cabinets to ensure all salable items are accounted for.
 - Organize and stage each item and piece of furniture in the home in order to make them more desirable.
 - Research and price each item at the highest value possible.
 - Photograph and market the sale online.
 - Staff the sale with individuals on the days of the sale.
